To Whom It May Concern:

Being in the construction business, on every project, you hope to have at least one company that will automatically enhance the quality of the day-to-day operations. For me, it's been Rod's Plumbing & Heating (RPH) out of Grand Ledge, MI.

On every project that I have worked with RPH, whether professional or personal, the counsel that they have offered, from their staff in the office, to their installers in the field, has been immeasurable. Everyone's knowledge, expertise and professionalism set a high standard on every job they take part on. Whether it is quality of work, safety, knowledge of the project, or even the billing process, I can always count on RPH going above and beyond.

Sometimes when you have fantastic experiences — especially in today's times — you just can't help but tell others about it. I hope you'll take the time to consider Rod's Plumbing & Heating for your project.

Sincerely,

James Styka
